

Bob Lockhart, Senior Analyst

Bob Lockhart is a Senior Analyst contributing to Pike Research's smart energy practice, focusing on cyber security markets, meter data management markets, and smart grid managed services. Lockhart is a frequent blogger and author, having recently published market forecasts and analyses on smart grid cyber security, industrial control system security, and meter data management.

Lockhart has extensive leadership experience in the global technology and outsourcing industry, having supported more than 200 multinational clients. His career encompasses support for smart grid, manufacturing, aerospace, government, financial services, outsourcing, and healthcare industries in both the United States and Europe. Lockhart has served multiple roles including Chief Security Officer, Software Manager, Security Portfolio Executive, Solution Architect, and Data Center Manager.