

Cliff Gleicher

Cliff is Senior Director of PG&E's SmartMeter program, and has been working on SmartMeter issues since late 2009. Cliff's involvement with PG&E's SmartMeter program has run the gamut from the meter-accuracy-questions that arose in Bakersfield, California in 2009 to the RF-issues that arose in 2010, and the meter-choice issues of 2011-12. For the 9 years prior to joining PG&E's SmartMeter organization, Cliff was an attorney with PG&E's Law Department, in his most-recent role working as the Director in charge of all tort and commercial litigation.
