

Martin Hill

Future Networks Manager

ScottishPower EnergyNetworks

Martin is the Future Networks Manager for ScottishPower EnergyNetworks and has been with ScottishPower since 2005. Martin is responsible for the Smart Grid initiatives within ScottishPower and overseeing the development and growth of smart metering, maximising opportunities for the networks business.

Martin has worked in a variety of roles within ScottishPower including Corporate Strategy and Investment Planning. At present, the Low Carbon Network Fund initiative, run by Ofgem, is the key area of focus within the Future Networks Department in ScottishPower. This initiative is an annual competition for UK based electricity networks projects relating to decarbonising the grid and implementing smart grids, as well as encouraging other innovative technology.
